

From the Pastor's Desk

In 2005 Andre and Marguerite DeBry of Hereford, France celebrated their 81st anniversary of marriage. They were recognized as the couple married the longest in the world, as far as we know. When asked what they recommend to help couples have a long and happy marriage they replied, "Do not go to bed angry with each other". May the Lord bless all of our married couples and families.

Question and Answer Forum with Fr. John

Dear Father, I was wondering...What is the correct way to place one's hands during the Lord's prayer, and other parts of the Mass?

Dear friend, Thank you for your very practical question. In the Roman Missal which the priest uses to celebrate Mass at the altar there are rubrics- small notes in red print telling the priest that, for example, he should fold his hands or extend his hands during a particular prayer. Our holy parishioners have no such guide. However, according to the U.S. Bishops, there is no right or wrong thing to do with one's hands during the Mass. Theologians advise us not to hold hands during the Lord's prayer. That gesture is for the sign of peace. Also, they advise us not to imitate the priest's actions with hands extended during prayers, as Father is praying to God in our name. Perhaps it is best to fold our hands or place them at our side. Of course, it is up to our own discretion what we do with our hands in church. No gesture is sinful as long as it is not meant as an insult to God or people.

Father is in need of more questions for the Question boxes at the entrance of each church. Do you have a question about our Faith? Please submit it anonymously and Father will answer it in a future bulletin.
